Hollywood-rockers Anthem of Silence sign representation deal with Tokyo-based Reflex Inc, book headlining show at House of Blues for Nov. 30

Los Angeles, CA — November 15, 2010 — Local alt-pop-rockers Anthem of Silence will be headlining a major event at House of Blues on the Sunset Strip on November 30, 2010. The band recently inked a deal with Japanese management firm Reflex Inc to expand their distribution opportunities in the Asian markets. This accomplishment came after charged AoS shows at classic LA venues such as the Whiskey, El Cid, Viper, Silverlake Lounge, along with the Halloween event “Dark Harbor” on the Queen Mary. Additionally, the band has recently been recognized through songwriting & music competition finalist placements, the latest one being Black Mountain Productions’ Indie Music Fest in Las Vegas with a show scheduled for May 21, 2011.

"AoS has the talent, the vision and the staying power to rival any band currently in the mainstream spotlight," says David Harms of Twaddle Magazine. The 4-piece are currently finishing work on their next album, Television, due out in 2011, and their new EP "Twenty2 Red Roses and One White Rose" is available on all major online stores. Charmed and charming, this evolving group has appeal to a wide audience, from fans of Fleetwood Mac and The Pixies to fans of Queen and Nirvana.

“We felt it was important to follow up recent successes with a show at House of Blues—a place that can truly convey our live chemistry to a wider audience,” says Dolce Wang, the group’s cellist. Adam Fischer, the bassist and business manager adds, “We thought this was a great time to book a solid show, and reach out to the local music community for promotion, publicity, and live reviews.” Tickets for the House of Blues show are available online at the band’s website: www.anthemofsilence.com; doors open at 8pm, AoS goes on at 10pm.
